

Southern Pacific Train Robbed in California.

The Same Train Robbed at the Same Place About Six Weeks Ago.

Dynamite and Winchester Used—Train First Wrecked—Engineer and Fireman in the Ruins—A Large Sum of Money Aboard Was Probably Taken.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 16.—Southern Pacific train No. 20 was robbed at Roscoe station Friday morning about 1 o'clock. This is the place that the same train was robbed about six weeks ago. The train was delayed in leaving here and did not get away until about 11:30 Thursday night. It was heavily loaded with passengers and the Wells-Fargo Co. shipments were unusually heavy. The train reached Burbank, about six miles north of the city, and reported back all right. At Roscoe, four miles north of Burbank, there is no station but a siding.

As the train approached the switch the engineer, Thomas, saw, too late, that the switch was misplaced, and vainly tried to stop the train, but he could not do it, and the engine and two cars of oranges went into the ditch, the engine turning over and burying the engineer and fireman. The two fruit cars were a total wreck. As soon as the wreck occurred three masked men sprang out of the bushes and began a fusillade, and everyone knew that the mission of the desperadoes was robbery. A few seconds later a couple of dynamite bombs were placed under the express car. The messenger refused to open the car and the whole side was blown off.

Brakeman Foster rose to the emergency as soon as he heard the shots and made a run for a neighboring ranch house, where he saw a light. Here he got a team and drove back to Burbank and gave the alarm. He can not tell how much the robbers got, but it is probable that they cleaned out the express car. He said that Engineer Thomas was badly hurt, as well as the fireman, and Dr. Ainsworth, the company's surgeon here, left on a light engine for the scene. Foster could not tell whether any passengers were hurt, but thought they were only badly shaken up.

Two posse of deputy sheriffs have just left for the scene and a wrecking-train is now making up to clear the track. Foster has an idea that Evans and Morrell may have participated in the affair, but as there were three men this is hardly deemed possible. A fusillade of pistol shots were continuously kept up, and it is not unlikely that some of the train crew or passengers may have been hurt before they found out what the matter was. It is almost certain that the express messenger was hurt, as the two explosions of dynamite bombs were said to have been terrific.

TILT WITH A SURVEY.

Congressman Enloe Against the Coast Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Representative Enloe, of Tennessee, purposes running a tilt against the coast and geodetic survey. The appropriation for the survey in the last congress was $328,000, and $299,000 is asked at this session. Mr. Enloe is determined that it shall not be appropriated or at least only a part of it. Asked for his reasons Friday morning Mr. Enloe replied: "I oppose the appropriation because the work of the survey is practically complete, while the great bulk of the work belonging to the geodetic branch is performed by officers of the navy, who are paid from a separate fund. It is absurd to support a small army of people when there is little, if anything, for them to do. The whole bureau ought to be abolished."

Painter Watts' Royal Gift.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The celebrated English painter, G. F. Watts, of the Royal academy, has offered to present to the U. S. government the painting, "Love and Life," which was on exhibition at the World's London exposition. For its acceptance an act of congress will be needed, and Secretary Gresham has written to the committee on foreign affairs, requesting a resolution. The committee voted to report a resolution. The painting will be hung in the reception room of the white house, as there is no national gallery in which to place it.

The Acme Mine Trouble.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 16.—The Acme miners have resolved to accept a reduction, and will resume work Monday next. The Montgomery miners refuse to confer with the operators. An adjustment of the differences at the other mines is hoped for.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Secretary of state has received a telegram from Minister Gray, in Mexico City, stating that A. M. Pullman, of San Diego, Cal., who was in prison at Ensenada, would be released on bail. It had been reported to the state department that Pullman was being detained in prison without trial, and that officers refused bail, and Secretary Gresham had notified Minister Gray to see that the prisoner was not divested of his legal rights.

Pullman is well known in Washington. He is the son of the late Judge Pullman, of Winchester, Va. The story of his arrest and detention by the local Mexican authorities is one of great cruelty.

Pullman was the manager of the Valle de las Palmas ranch, between Lower California and the United States. He harbored there for a time a young American named Whitman, who confessed to him to having robbed the Wells-Fargo Express Co. of about $4,000. Pullman persuaded him to return to the United States and give himself up. For this he was arrested by the Mexican police in Ensenada, and without a word of explanation was thrown into a filthy dungeon under the military barracks. Here he remained until his continued absence attracted attention, and inquiries set on foot, by some of his San Diego friends revealed his condition.

Patterson Sprigg, of San Diego, his attorney, went to Ensenada, and after long negotiations with the local authorities, in which they treated with indifference the representations that the prisoner was a citizen of the United States, succeeded in having Pullman placed in a somewhat better place of confinement, where he could have medical attention. The prisoner now learned for the first time that he was charged with kidnapping Whitman from Mexican soil. Pullman's attorney at once procured an affidavit from Whitman that his return to the United States has been entirely voluntary, but it had no effect in securing the release of the prisoner. Bail was repeatedly refused him. The state department was induced to intervene, with the result above stated.

AGAINST SUGAR.

But Favorable to the Whisky Trust—Sub-committee Revision.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—It has leaked out that the senate sub-committee revising the Wilson tariff bill recommend a uniform duty of one cent a pound upon sugar of all grades, and that the tax upon whisky be placed at $1.20 per gallon, and the bonded period extended from three to five years and the goods in bond made to pay the increase of tax. Both the sugar and whisky representatives here have been informally informed of this action, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The first action is in opposition to the sugar trust, and the latter is favorable to the whisky trust. The whisky action is in part justified by the fact that the increase of tax and the requirement that goods in bond shall pay the increase will vastly increase the revenue of the government immediately upon the passage of the bill, as the owners of whisky in bond will be anxious to escape payment of the increase of thirty cents a gallon, and will pay the tax on bonded spirits and immediately take it out of bond.

The sub-committee have been notified by a majority of the senators and the members of the house ways and means committee that it would be useless to report any proposition which would favor the sugar trust, as it would be voted down in both houses almost unanimously. It will be remembered that the ways and means committee attempted to favor the trust by recommending a discriminating duty in favor of the refiners amounting to a quarter of a cent per pound. When the proposition came before the house it only received about twenty or thirty votes, or less than a sufficient number to demand the tellers. It is not believed that twenty votes could be summoned in the senate to support any duty intended to favor the refiners.

Peckham's Nomination Not Confirmed by the Senate.

Twenty-Three Democrats, Eight Republicans and a Populist Vote Yes.

Among Those Who Favor the Confirmation Was Senator Sherman, But He Was Absent and Not Patted.—The Vote 41 to 32—Bill Is Happy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—After a two days' session spent in the discussion of the nomination of Wheeler H. Peckham, nominated by the president to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, the senate Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, by the decisive vote of 41 to 32, rejected the nomination. The senate now consists of 85 members, and this vote accounts for all but 12 of that number.

The vote was as follows: For confirmation—Democrats: Bate, Blackburn, Brice, Butler, Caffery, Faulkner, George Gray, Harris, Hunt, Lindsay, McPherson, Martin, Mills, Mitchell (Wis.), Palmer, Pasco, Ransom, Rauch, Turpie, Vilas, Voorhees and White (La.); republicans: Dixon, Hale, Mitchell (Ire.), Pettigrew, Platt, Proctor, Squire, Stockbridge; populist, Kyle.

Democrats: Berry, Call, Cockrell, Coke, Daniel, Gibson, Gorman, Irby, Jones (Ark.), McLaughlin, Murphy, Hill, Pugh, Vest, White (Cal.). Populists: Allen, Peffer. Total, 41.

This shows twenty-three democrats, eight republicans and one populist voting for confirmation, and fifteen democrats, twenty-four republicans and two populists voting against. The pairs were as follows: Mr. McMillan for, with Mr. Vance against; Morgan for, with Mr. Quay against; Mr. Smith for, with Mr. Dabois against; Mr. Cameron for, Mr. Jones, of Nevada, against; Mr. Colquitt and Mr. Sherman, both favorable to confirmation, were absent and not patted.

The president was informed of the defeat of the Peckham nomination within a few minutes after it had been rejected. A prominent senator sent a telegram to Mr. Cleveland over the wire running from the senate to the white house. During the cabinet meeting, which lasted from 11 o'clock until 2:30, the president and cabinet officers present waited for some news from the senate, and it is said that the meeting was prolonged in the expectation that something definite would be received.

burg Near Kiel.

The Main Steam Pipe of the Starboard Engine Explodes.

Thirty-Nine Workmen Killed or Injured—Physicians, Surgeons and Medical Supplies Sent to the Scene.

KIEL, Feb. 17.—A terrible accident occurred on board the German ironclad Raminburg Friday morning near Stollgründ, three miles from the Düppel Lighthouse, at the entrance to the Kiel bay. The big vessel for some time past has been in Kiel harbor, one of the best harbors in Europe and the chief war harbor of Germany, undergoing various experiments. Friday was selected for a forced draught trial.

To get the ironclad in first-class condition for the test forty artificers were sent aboard from the imperial dock yard. While eleven of these artificers were in the engine room a tremendous explosion took place. The main steam pipe of the starboard engine had burst. Far above the noise of the escaping steam were heard the heartrending cries of the injured and dying.

Panic temporarily spread among the crew, but after a moment's hesitation every effort was put forth to rescue the unfortunate men in the engine room. It was then found that of the eleven artificers all but one had been killed. The man who escaped owed his preservation from the fate of his comrades to the fact that at the moment of the explosion he was standing on a ladder near the top of the room. His companions were all on the floor of the room.

When the steam had cleared away, and the panic had subsided, a further search was made among the crew for the dead and injured. It was then discovered that thirty-nine men in all had been killed and nine injured. Thirty-two of the men were killed instantly. Two of the wounded died a short while after receiving their injuries.

Six steamers were promptly dispatched from Kiel to the scene of the disaster. They carried a number of physicians and surgeons and a large quantity of medical supplies. The guardship Pelican, with Prince Henry, of Prussia, on board, also put off instantly to the Brandenburg's aid. The dead and wounded were carried from the Brandenburg to the steamers and conveyed to Kiel. The injured were taken to the hospital. It is believed that they will recover.

The details of the accident are very hard to obtain. It is said that as soon as the explosion occurred all hands were summoned on deck and the pumps were rigged. It was not then known what the accident amounted to, and fears were entertained that the Brandenburg was in danger of sinking.

All day long the most intense excitement has prevailed at Kiel. Most of the dead and injured lived here or in the neighborhood, and many of them were men of family. The wharves were crowded from the time the steamers left for the scene of the explosion until they returned with the victims.

As the dead and wounded were borne tenderly from the vessel to the shore the air resounded with the cries of the bereaved, while those who had not lost any friends or relatives uncovered their heads.

A strict inquiry will be made into the cause of the disaster. Kiel is not unused to such scenes of suffering and death. In August, 1893, an accident similar in its dreadful features to the present calamity took place while the German vessel Raden was engaged in gun practice at Friedriehsort, near Kiel. A shell, by some unexplained cause, exploded prematurely, killing two lieutenants and seven men.

Prince Henry, of Prussia, together with Admiral Schroeder and other high officials, was on board the Raden at the time, watching the experiments.
